Checking security certificate:

You can take some simple steps to help protect yourself against Internet scams by checking a website’s security certificate. Whenever you go to a secure login page, double-click on the lock that appears in the lower right corner of your browser to view the security certificate.

It should tell you:

- Who the security certificate was issued to;
- Who issued the certificate; and
- The valid beginning and ending dates.
- You should also be able to open up an “Issuers Statement” for more detailed information.

Additionally, always be sure your anti-virus software is current and that you’re using the most recent version of your browser. Visit your virus software and Internet browser Websites to ensure you have the latest updates.
